

10.6 Atmospheric scatter and seeing	150
10.7 Visual transmission, color contrast and saturation	152
10.8 Depth of field	154
10.9 Depth resolution and cardboard effect	157
10.10 Distortion and globe effect	159
10.11 The search for the ideal distortion curve	160
10.12 Observations with spectacles	163
III Binoculars in application	167
11 Application profiles of binoculars	169
11.1 The all around field glass	169
11.2 Binoculars for travel and trek	170
11.3 Low light binoculars	171
11.4 Handheld binoculars in astronomy	172
11.5 Military binoculars	174
11.6 Naval binoculars	178
11.7 Image stabilized binoculars	180
11.8 Compact binoculars	183
11.9 Opera glasses	185
11.10 Digital binoculars	186
12 Testing binoculars	189
12.1 Laboratory tests	189
12.2 A quicktest in- and outside the store	191
12.2.1 First impression: Design, haptics, ergonomics	191
12.2.2 Checking for additional knock-out criteria	192
12.2.3 Evaluating optical performance	194
12.3 Field tests	196
12.3.1 Resistance against stray-light	197
12.3.2 Ghost images	199
12.3.3 Off-center sharpness	202
12.3.4 Low light performance	203
12.3.5 Chromatic aberration	204
12.3.6 Ease of view: The unspeakable	205
12.3.7 Ergonomics and haptics	207
13 How to purchase the right instrument	209
13.1 High-end binoculars	209
13.2 Mid-range binoculars: Seeking the compromise	212
13.3 Hunting the bargain	215